Antilco Horseback Riding

Antilco has been running a horse trekking camp near Pucón since 1997. Vacation on horseback, whether half day horse riding, several day horse treks or a farm stay are part of the activities at the camp. On different horse trails suited to your horseback riding abilities, discover the beauty and wilderness of the Andean valleys around the National Parks Villarrica and Huerquehue. Antilco's Chilean criollo horses fulfill the needs of every rider, from beginner to expert.

Calbalgata Half-Day

Antilco offers various half-day excursions, and selects the trails depending on your skill level. One trail leads to the Mapuche Community of Quelhue and passes back past the Trancura River where you can see one of the big rapids, La Leona. Another trip follows the crystal clear Liucura river up to the Ojos de Caburga waterfalls, both with spectacular views of the Volcanoes Villarrica, Lanín and Quetrupillán.

Pitraco Trail Full-Day

The full day trip starts out following the Liucura River and crossing through the Mapuche Community of Quelhue to a lonesome valley. After riding along a beautiful narrow and sometimes steep mountain trail, you will reach the high planes of the Pitraco Valley where the horses rest and lunch is served. A crossing of the Pitraco Creek leads the way back out of the valley. On the way back to Quelhue, the trail is surrounded by huge Mañío trees as it winds beside the Trancura River with great views of the La Leona rapid.

Campo Antilco is a mountain farm. Located 12km from Pucón, on the Liucura River, in the foothills of the "Cerros de Quelhue" Forest Reserve. The farm is comprised of 76 acres, made up of various pastures and forests and is home to Matias and Karen plus their 21 horses. Besides the growing of vegetables and fruits for their own needs, they find time and space to raise pigs and chicken, sheep, geese and ducks under natural conditions.
